

www.cdiweb.com
1-800-777-7334
sales@cdiweb.com

May 30, 2008

Dear Valued Customer:

Tensolite has acquired Carlyle Inc. (not to be confused with Tensolite's parent company, Carlisle Companies Incorporated.) – in a strategic move that will better position our organization to provide you with a vertically integrated supplier of complete interconnect solutions. Carlyle is focused on manufacturing custom wire and cable harnesses, rack and panels and cable assemblies for in-flight entertainment systems and specialty avionics applications. The company has facilities in Tukwila and Kent, Washington.

By combining our talented staffs, cutting-edge technologies and state-of-the-art products, we have created Carlisle Interconnect Technologies. While we have changed our name, we are not changing our unwavering commitment to our customers. Carlisle Interconnect Technologies' value proposition to its customers is founded on the proven principles of both Tensolite and Carlyle, Inc.

- Interconnect solutions encompassing every facet of design and production; a vertically integrated supplier focused on service excellence.
- Advanced engineering services, design prototyping and state-of-the-art testing; a cost-effective, superior product delivered on-time.
- Industry leading lead-times and superior cost efficiency through lean manufacturing techniques, just in time scheduling, and dock-to-stock systems.
- Global Manufacturing Capabilities including Low Cost Manufacturing through our world-class facility in China; a flexible manufacturing approach that supports our multi-National OEM customer base.
- Long term focus on emerging technologies and new opportunities as they come to light; strong financial backing from our corporate parent Carlisle Companies, Inc. make this possible.

We recognize that re-branding our company means more than a new name and logo. A brand encompasses everything from customer perception and experience to quality, look and feel. This strategic combination has only strengthened our commitment to customer service and delivering leading edge interconnect solutions to you our valued customer. We thank you for your support and for being part of this exciting transition.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "John E. Berlin".

John E. Berlin
President